The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

Learning about vestry through interaction with members.

The best thing this year was:

Attending. This is my first year.

Something I would consider changing:

Ask each vestry member to provide impressions as part of wrapup.

The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

building community
setting direction
worshipping together

The best thing this year was:

the small group conversations that gave us
language for our next steps

Something I would consider changing:

~~adding more~~ I like the looking back at what we've said in previous years (did that last yr) when appropriate

The most important thing about these retreats for me is: Hard to say. This is my first. I thought it informative and explaining of process. Better able to answer next year.

The best thing this year was: I always think that events like this create a stronger ~~community~~ community with and trust in each other

The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

To get a focus of the work that needs to be done.

The best thing this year was:

Beginning a working relationship, since I'm new, with others on the nestry

Something I would consider changing:

Don't think I would change anything

The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

Getting to know the other members better, and learn to trust them.

The best thing this year was:

The work on most/best things at Trivinity, developing the list of three things.

Something I would consider changing:

Nothing, I like the format and schedule.

The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

getting into, fellowship, listening to others

The best thing this year was:

seemed much more relevant & practical as compared to last year

Something I would consider changing:

Personally, I find October very difficult to schedule, but get it that majority rules.

The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

- becoming more involved in the spiritual life of our community
- getting to know fellow nesting members

The best thing this year was:

- the weather (just kidding)
- discovering how deeply each member felt about participating

Something I would consider changing:

Nothing

The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

Fellowship of vestry members
Flow of ideas + work w/o interruption

The best thing this year was:

Moving forward to the input of the parish toward a statement + ideas for improving parish life.

Something I would consider changing:

Many of the consultants' activities were similar/same as previous years, felt repetitive. Some new ideas would be welcome.

Frequent "breathing breaks" were helpful, especially after meals. I wonder about a larger break after lunch (fresh air), restating at 1:30, and then beginning Rest + Recreation at 3 or 3:30

The most important thing about these retreats for me is:

The building of lives within the vestry.

The best thing this year was:

Community

Something I would consider changing:

See "Other" on front.

Your name Ashlia Bray

For me, the shape of reading the psalms was artificial and, thus, distracting.
